GEORGE O. BARNES

GOD IS LOVE AND NOTHING ELSE

— PRAISE THE LORD. —

DURANT, Miss, Dec. 22, 1887.
Sunday morning we attended a joint communion service at the Methodist church, where the Presiding Elder, Bro. Macmillan, gave us a practical sermon on the duties of church stewards. The communion was administered on the communion table, and the lines were well known to all. No mention of the ordinance I did not make a "cheeky" thing after all the services were over. The pastor gave out his appointments for the week and then the Presbyterian preacher gave his. After which I rose and said, "I see a good many of my people here and I will, announce that I will preach in the courthouse at 2 o'clock, and also at night, the usual hour." A hush, as if pulses had ceased to beat, followed this announcement, but the walls were stout and the roof did not fall in.
Then my "spirit being stirred within me" I spoke boldly at the 2 p. m. service, on the proper observance of the LORD'S Supper, showing that in its true import it meant health for our disease-stricken bodies, and purity for our defiled, sin-infested souls.
We only had seven services in Keesling, or for nearly ten weeks. The closing meeting was at 2 p. m. yesterday. We left for Durant by the same train we came down, the 6:30 mail. Two days of most villainously diabolical weather, out of the four. When the elements favored, the house was crowded. Keesling is all right. "All the king's horses and all the king's men" can't set up "Dagon" on his pedestal again, in many, many hearts. Praises the LORD!

The crucial test was well put by a colored brother, who called to see me. I appointed him for a lame leg. "Dey's makin' a great bog a-bog about lettin' 'em out," was the way he put it. I told him if "they" would only make as great a "bog-a-bog" about keeping them from going in, they would do the LORD better service. Ah, me! To think that good people so coolly acquiesce in that truly ferocious doctrine of the LORD'S peopling the infernal regions, yet kick so vigorously at His emptying them. We force, we are sinners "saved by grace" ourselves, and actually think the folks sent to hell are worse than we by nature. There is such a lot of this pious "cod-fish aristocracy" feeling in the church. It was unconsciously expressed by another colored brother, who was overheard venting his disapprobation of Bro. Barnes' doctrine about "lettin' 'em out." "You needn't tell me," he said to his companion, indignantly, "supposin' I was in heaven and you in de order place, do you suppose I would want you to come and set down by me, after you had been in dsh? No, esh! I'd smell de sing on you and I wouldn't be happy any mo'." It ain't reasonable!

How redolent of human nature that is, isn't it? I was a davey said it, but he spoke for his white brethren too. That is the wretched principle that bars the way to any reform of a released convict from jail or penitentiary.
Have you seen December's Harper's? Have you read Will Carleton's touching story in rhyme, that goes over this very piece? If not, buy or borrow and read it. I have often been asked, when pointing out the scriptural distinction between law and punishment; law of God; punishment of the devil. "Would you then unlock all the penitentiaries and jails and vomit forth upon 'respectable society' the contents of the cess-pools of crime?" I answer "No, but not, as you suppose, because the jails and prisons are so bad, but because 'respectable society' is so bad. If it was what it would be—sympathetic, forgiving, self-deprecating and God-like, it would not only empty the jails, but would 'insure for a nickel' the reformation, immediate and lasting, of 999 out of every 1,000 discharged prisoners. It is the heartlessness of 'respectable society' that holds the poor, released convict, who has served his term, off at arm's length, and makes return to respectability, as hopeless as the restoration of the once fallen woman; this human heartlessness, turns the man to a demon, relegating him to the penitentiary worse than when he came out; and sends the poor lost girl, on 'the short line' to the prostitute's grave. Read Victor Hugo's 'Les Misérables' and its thrilling, awful relations. No respectable society so thoroughly bad, to try any such dangerous experiments. It cannot be trusted yet. But, thank God, this is the end of the earth, earthy. When heaven is reached we shall be ready to welcome the poor souls who have gone over the long, rough road; whose feet have trodden the 'burning mart' before they 'walked the golden streets'; and there will be no danger of demoralization in the heavenly realm, for we shall 'know even as we are known'; we shall know our God is Love and Nothing Else, and all the saved as 'like,' 'sinners saved by grace.' This is what we forget, and, forgetting, play into the devil's hand. Ever in Jesus,

NEWS NOTES.

—The King of Spain is just beginning to talk; and, young as he is, he talks Spanish. [Cincinnati Enquirer.]
—William Herring, who killed his wife and her paramour at St. Francis, Ark., was hanged by vigilantes on Tuesday night.
—The town of Houma, La., was nearly wiped out by fire Friday night. 128 houses being burned, causing a loss $100,000.
—The floor of the bar of a Sioux Indian half breed, at Pierre, Dak., was taken up, when the ghastly spectacle of 14 skeletons was revealed.
—The Pennsylvania railroad company has inaugurated a system of savings banks for its employees and will give them interest on deposits.
—S. C. Cardwell, a clerk in a distillery at Camp Nelson, killed James Hunter, the store-keeper, in a quarrel over their respective rights in the establishment.
—The passenger rate from Louisville to San Francisco raised from $82.60 to $102.00, and tickets to all points in California will advance $20 on the round-trip.
—Anthony, Kansas, is trying to get the county seat from Harper, although at the election the latter received 300 majority, alleging fraud and ballot box stuffing by the Harpers.
—Virgil Hewitt, now Deputy Insurance Commissioner, has been appointed Assistant Auditor of State, to succeed Charles S. Green, who retired the first of the year to accept the office of Tobacco Inspector on the Louisville breaks.

—John North, of Philadelphia, went home drunk and quarreled with his wife. Attempting to strike her, the blow fell upon the babe in her arms, crushing its skull, death immediately following. The miser able wretch became frantic when he realized his crime.
—According to Dan & Co., the failures last year numbered 230 less than 1885, but the liabilities are $53,000,000 in excess. In 1887 there were 9,634 failures and $167,569,944 liabilities. In 1886 the failures were 9,884 and liabilities $114,644,117. The failures in the United States averaged one in 111 persons.
—Another wreck occurred on the Chicago & Atlantic road at Kouts, Ind. A brakeman and a car of cattle were burned to a crisp. Near Meadville, Pa., a freight and a "thunderbolt" express collided with a disastrous crash, on the New York, Pennsylvania & Ohio road. Five persons were killed outright and 15 were badly hurt. The details of the disasters are terrible.

—Frank Conway, keeper of McKenna's billiard hall, was fatally shot at Richmond by George White, Jr., a saddler. The trouble grew out of the price of the game Conway applied an epithet to White and was shot, the ball passing through the left arm and entering the lungs. White went at once and tried to get into the county jail, but the tankard, seeing he was drunk, did not believe his story that he had shot a man, and drove him away.

DANVILLE, BUTLER COUNTY.

—A "Crackendale" party was given by Miss Mamie McKennas Tuesday night. About 15 young people were in attendance.
—Rev. David Fennessy, president of St. Mary's College, was in town Thursday, the guest of Rev. A. J. Brady. Mr. Frank VanWinkle, who has been in Tennessee for some months, is at home on a visit.

—A pantomime representation of Rip VanWinkle was given at the Deal and Daub Institute Thursday evening. Prof. J. H. Yager had charge of the management and all of the performers were natives.

—Mr. Lee Withrow, the baggage master who was killed in the collision between the fast train below Somerset on Saturday was for a number of years a citizen of Danville, where he has ever been kindly remembered. He drove the stage between here and Nicholasville and afterwards between here and Saly City. His wife, who died several years ago, was a Miss Huston, of Lincoln, near Hustonville.

—Dr. Thomas W. Jackson died suddenly at his home on the Perryville turnpike Saturday evening. It is thought of heart disease. A native of Bourbon county, Dr. Jackson came to Danville when a young man and has resided here and in the county since. He was a prominent physician and surgeon. About 25 years ago he retired from the profession and has since then employed himself in the management of his large estate. He was a quiet, unassuming man, but distinguished for strong convictions upon all subjects. Although belonging to no religious sect, he was a firm believer in the fundamental truths of religion and was a constant reader of the scriptures. He was the uncle and early medical preceptor of the late Dr. John D. Jackson, whose death is still regarded as a great loss to his profession. Dr. Jackson's funeral is set for to-day (Monday) at 10 o'clock. There will be burial services by Rev. P. T. Hale, of the Baptist church, after which the remains will be interred in the cemetery by the side of two brothers, who died many years ago. The following named gentlemen have been selected as pall bearers: Messrs R. D. and A. E. Logan, Drs. J. M. Meyer and L. S. McMurry, Messrs. W. S. Lyne and J. B. McFerran.

GARRARD COUNTY DEPARTMENT.

Lancaster.
—The rain of Saturday night started the streams and filled the ponds in this vicinity.
—The board of supervisors of Garrard county meets to-day to raise property valuations.
—H. C. Arnold, Jr., sold Z. C. Smiley, of Lexington, one three-year-old gelding for $145.
—A great rush is expected by the merchants of Lancaster to-day, Monday, on the part of their customers to pay up.
—W. G. Smith went to Somerset yesterday, Monday. R. L. Balle and family left yesterday for Springfield, which place will be their future home.
—The wife of J. B. Johnston presented him with a ten pound boy on Saturday night, for a New Year's gift. The youngster is named Stuart Johnson.
—The school taught at the Pleasant Hill school house by Mrs. Dilly Brown, closed last week. The average attendance for the session was 40 pupils per day.
—Capt. M. Salter is temporarily assigned to duty at Curry's distillery, vice Jas. Hunter, who was killed there last Friday by Cardwell. His friends hope the position will be permanent.

—A half century ago the 1st day of Jan. was always a big one in Lancaster. On that day everybody who owed a debt paid it; there was a general clearing up all round. Those were good old days.

—Garrard county comes in for her share in everything. At the republican legislative caucus in Frankfort last week Hon. W. O. Bradley was nominated for Senator, Miss Ella Watson for librarian and W. G. Dunlap for clerk, all of Garrard.

—George W. B. Little is rejoiced because a certain preacher the other day, at one of the churches here, referred to the L. & N. railroad as a grasping monopoly. George says the K. C. has been so much abused it does him good to hear another road get it in the neck.

—The young men of the Lancaster Social Club gave an elegant banquet at the Miller Hotel on Friday night to the young ladies of the club and a few visiting friends. The menu was prepared by Mrs. Pattie Miller, the hostess, and that is as much as to say that it was perfect in every respect. There were about 90 guests present.

HUSTONVILLE, LINCOLN COUNTY.

—The ice season was brought to a sudden stand still Friday evening. The rain of that night was very abundant and swelled the streams to such an extent as to defy the intense cold of Sunday and the night following.

—Our stirring young trader, grocer, druggist, &c., celebrated New Year's morning by exhibiting to his friends another Miss H. Han, large and likely, intelligent for her age, and pretty for her opportunities. "Tone" is one of our most hustling citizens.

—The railroad collision of Saturday brought sorrow to our county. Young Mr. Severance was widely known and highly esteemed in this community, while Mr. Withrow, who formerly lived among us, and married here, was universally beloved and deservedly so. His wife, who was Miss Nannie, daughter of John Huston, of this place, died some two years since at Ludlow leaving three interesting children, now doubly orphaned.

—The blood-curdling war hoop is not heard as frequently as it was a week ago. The negro John Brown, whose skull was caved in by a blow from Jim Helm's gun, is thought to be in a precarious condition, but I believe there is no precedent for an injury on the head having ever proved fatal to one of the race. Hence it is not probable that John's soul, like that of his immortal prototype and namesake of Harper's Ferry fame, will be doomed to an interminable "marching on," keeping step to the music of the spheres. The gun is happily done for.

—I have advised from Frankfort that a State Teachers' Association will convene there February 10th. The address of welcome will be delivered by Gov. Beckner. Judge Ballou, the father of the educational enterprise in Kentucky will preside over the body. Many of the greater lights of the system are expected to be present and it is hoped that teachers and educators from all parts of the State will be found in attendance. Our county has a large number of teachers, whom I should be proud to meet there; and I hope all who can will make their arrangements to be on hand.

—It was announced at Dave Yandell's reminiscences of his experience as a premarriage riser of the dead. Mr. inference is that had Charlie Caldwell's watermelon patch been guarded by lively artillery during the untimely doctor's college days, the crop would have averaged more satisfactorily. But second, if not sober, thought, saved in one occasion, when a party, having walked two miles, and reached the tempting enclosure, held a consultation and decided, at the doctor's suggestion, I think, to go back to town for another drink before they could feel prepared to make the attack in force. But that drink saved the melons on that occasion.

—The steamer Oceanic, from China and Japan, is quarantined at San Francisco, and two cases of small pox were discovered among the steerage passengers.

HORRIBLE!

Lightning Expresses on the Cincinnati Southern Collide,

Causing Terrible Slaughter and Destruction.

JAMES SEVERANCE Among the DEAD

Saturday night our citizens were startled by the report of a terrible accident on the Cincinnati Southern. The first news was that 25 persons had been killed, including our townsman, James Severance, and over 100 wounded by the collision of the limited lightning express trains at a point some 20 miles below Somerset, when they were running at 60 miles an hour. This was an exaggeration but subsequent reports made the matter but little less horrible. It seems that the train dispatcher had ordered the trains to pass at Summit, but one of the engineers mistook the name for Somerset and the train came together with all the force of their powerful momentum, shattering them almost and wrecking a number of cars, some of which were burned. Four persons were killed outright and 15 wounded, five of the latter dying since. James Severance, of Stanford, suffered concussion with effusion of the brain and died Sunday night at Somerset, where most of the wounded were brought. Three small scalp wounds are on his head, but other wise he is not at all disfigured. His mother, Brother Will and Dr. Peyton went at once to his side, but he never rallied or recognized any of them.

The other killed are Lee Withrow, baggage master, Ludlow; L. C. Cullen, baggage master, Ludlow; W. B. Powell, E. & O. Express messenger, Madisonville; O. H. Candee, fireman, Ludlow; Miss Jessie Green, Chattanooga; Pat Taylor, engineer train 1, Somerset. Among the wounded are E. J. Roberts, mail agent, leg and arm broken; Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Avery, Covington, badly scalded; Engineer Michael, leg broken; Joseph Hepp, Covington, severely hurt; W. E. Jackson, express messenger, badly bruised; Pat Murphy, Junction City, leg broken and Conductor Surum, whose ankle caused the accident, internally injured. Several of the killed were burned with the wreck. Other persons are missing and they also are supposed to be burned. The accident is the most horrible that ever occurred in Kentucky and might have been avoided but for having names and stations so near alike on paper. Dr. Peyton says that the Hicks family, the Porches and others, of Somerset, did all in their power to help the unfortunate and their friends, while the doctors labored with the greatest zeal to ameliorate the condition of the wounded.

Jimmie Severance

Evincing in some measure the estimation in which Jimmie Severance was held in this community, the following resolutions were passed by a meeting of a large number of the young men of Stanford soon after the sad news of his death reached us. Resolved, That in the death of our dear young friend and associate, Jimmie Severance, an irreparable loss is sustained by his companions, his family and the community. As a friend he was ever true; as a son and brother kind and loving; as a companion, always cheerful, generous, considerate and faithful; as a Christian highly exemplary in all his duties and deportment; honorable, high minded and chivalrous; in his relations he exhibited a courtesy and capacity of the highest order. In his sudden and inexpressible sad demise, we, his young associates and friends, offer to his father, mother, brothers and relatives whatever of consolation there is in sincere sympathy.

THIS GOOD OLD STAND-BY accomplishes for everybody exactly what is claimed for it. One of the reasons for the great popularity of the Mustang Liniment is found in its universal applicability. Everybody needs such a medicine. The Lumberman needs it in case of accident. The Housewife needs it for her general family use. The Country needs it for his teams and his men. The Mechanic needs it always on his work bench.

The Miner needs it in case of emergency. The Pioneer needs it—can't get along without it. The Farmer needs it in his house, his stable, and his stock yard. The Steamboat man or the Boatman needs it in liberal supply aboard and ashore. The Horse-fancier needs it—it is his best friend and safest reliance.

The Stock-grower needs it—it will save him thousands of dollars and a world of trouble. The Railroad man needs it and will need it as long as his life is a round of accidents and dangers. The Backwoodsman needs it. There is nothing like it as an antidote for the dangers to life, limb and comfort which surround the pioneer.

The Merchant needs it about his store among his employees. Accidents will happen, and when these come the Mustang Liniment is wanted at once. Keep a Bottle in the House. 'Tis the best of security. Keep a Bottle in the Factory. 'Tis the best of insurance. Keep a Bottle in the Stable for use when wanted.
